Cryptocurrencies have been gaining popularity over the years. In Indonesia, the number of investors using cryptocurrencies are steadily increasing. Especially since the legalization of cryptocurrencies as an investment in Indonesia on 2018. This study aims to find the relationships between cryptocurrency returns and the exchange rate as well as the Indonesian composite stock index returns. This research employs a granger causality analysis alongside a linear regression model to analyze the findings. The results of the analysis show that despite the increasing popularity and usage of cryptocurrencies, in Indonesia, there appears to be no prevalent effects of them on exchange rate or the composite index returns. Due to the fact that legalization in Indonesia still does not acknowledge cryptocurrencies as a transaction method, there is no impact seen on the exchange rate and stock index returns, as it does not cause disturbance to the monetary value of the Rupiah.

DEDICATION

I dedicate this work to my Mother and the rest of my family and to all of my friends that has supported and aided me through this journey.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

First and foremost, I would like to thank God as He has always given me the aptitude, guidance, confidence, motivation and health to successfully complete my thesis work. I thank Him for His constant guidance during my four years of study in Swiss German University.

I would like to convey my genuine gratitude to my mother and family and close ones who have constantly supported me through the duration of my studies and helped me conquer any obstacle I faced.

I would like to show my deepest appreciation to my advisor, Mrs. Margaretha Tiur Pasuria Lingga, S.E., M.M. who has given me the chance to have her credible thoughts and guide that have greatly helped in shaping this thesis. Her understanding and support, has helped me in finishing this thesis work. It has been a great honor to have her as my advisor and lecture in most of my studies in SGU.

I would also like to thank Dr. Ir. Yosman Bustaman M. Buss, with his vast knowledge and financial expertise. Thank you for helping in finishing this thesis work.

Last but definitely not the least, I want to express my sincerest thanks to Nathania Serlinda for always supporting and being there for me whenever I faced hardships. I would also like to thank Alisha Aozora, Antonio Arden, Naaziel Dzaudan and Sarah Saleh for their immense help and kindness during my time in Swiss German University. I would also like to thank all of my friends that I made during my study in Swiss German University, as I would not have been able to accomplish this without their support.
